VoxBox Voiceover Academy

Looking for a voiceover academy in the South Bay that offers professional training and opportunities to record in a high tech studio environment? There's a place for you at the WebTone VoxBox Voiceover Academy. From performance to business, VoxBox introduces you to the all aspects of the voiceover industry

Introducing the VoxBox Staff

We are leaders in voiceover training through excellence and student satisfaction. We are committed to nurturing ability, breeding success and raising confidence in our students.

Irene Trapp – VoxBox founder, teacher, voice and stage actor, music director, and vocalist. She has over 25 years of experience in the theatre and in the studio. Her credits include singing and dancing at Great America, providing character voices for Pizza Time Theatre, Agapeland, and several commercials for local Bay Area companies. She is the voice of Jules Argent on Carmen Sandiego for Riverdeep/TLC, and Dot the Dog for LeapFrog books and toys. One of her specialties is working with children in the studio.

Christiane Crawford - VoxBox co-founder, teacher, voice and on-camera actor and hip hop jazz choreographer. She is featured on hundreds of games and toys (Sega, Sony, Atari, Electronic Arts, Leapfrog Toys, Fisher-Price, etc.) . She is the voice of Batgirl and Carmen Sandiego for Riverdeep/TLC. Her commercial and narration clients include CNBC, Starbuck's, IBM, Xerox, BMW, EBay, and Round Table Pizza. She loves the teaching process and gets a huge kick out of completing the circle by passing on knowledge.

Building a team...

Greg Weber (WebTone founder) and Irene Trapp met in the Fremont studios of The Learning Company (TLC), performing as singing caterpillars for a Reader Rabbit product, and now come together to share from their collective experiences in the voiceover industry to teach others how to get into the biz. Christiane Crawford had been a voice talent at WebTone for several years before teaming up with Irene and Greg. Christiane and Irene later discovered they were on the same Carmen Sandiego product as Carmen and Jules.

CLASS OFFERINGS

VoxBox Intro Class – What's In the Box?

2 hour class $25

Sit down with Greg Weber, Irene Trapp and Christiane Crawford to get an overview of what opportunities are available for voice actors. Hear samples of video games, commercials, animation, and industrial presentations using a wide range of voice acting. If you're interested in pursuing a career in voiceover, we can move you through a series of classes to help you reach your goal.

VoxBox 101—Entering the Box

4 two hour classes $200

Find the elements that make up your box. Develop your acting skills, and mic technique. Learn to make the script your own. Students will be recorded in WebTone's state of the art sound studio, reading character, narration and commercial copy. Performances will be reviewed and feedback given by the instructors.

VoxBox 201 - Owning the Box

4 two hour classes $200

Delve into the details of script analysis, auditioning, developing your character's reality, and booking the job. Scripts will include dialogue and more focused attention on each individual's area of interest.

VoxBox One On One – Private Lessons

1 hour lesson $120

Read and record a variety of different scripts and be critiqued on what skills you need to gain the attention of producers and directors. Lesson times are available afternoons and evenings Tuesday through Friday, and Saturday afternoons. Call WebTone for an appointment.

VoxBox Kidz - Playing in the Box

$60 per session or $200 for four prepaid sessions

We're looking for kids who want to sign up for once a month classes designed just for kids 8-18 years old. Please call for latest scheduled dates and information.

VoxBox Jam - Moving Outside the Box

$60 per session or $200 for four prepaid sessions
